

The Fox and the Grapes

6A Anson Chan

When the goat got home, the scene at the grape orchard flooded in his mind. He would never forget this incident since it reminded him that the smallest act of kindness can make the biggest impact.

Once upon a time, there lived a sly fox who liked eating grapes. Other foxes did not like him and chased him away since he was afraid of goats. One day, he was starving because he did not find any food. While he was walking in the forest, he saw a grape orchard unexpectedly. It was as pretty as a picture to him. "Greed makes people blind and foolish." He ran towards the grape orchard with excitement.

When he arrived at the orchard, he got carried away. What a bolt out of the blue! The grapes were not only juicy but also big. The fox yelled, "I will get all the scrumptious grapes home and have a feast!" In the blink of an eye, the fox already spotted the juiciest grapes. After he ensured that no one was nearby, he tried to jump up with all his might, hoping to get the grapes. Nevertheless, he could not get the grapes.

Although the fox tried his best to reach the top of the tree to get the grapes, he failed every time. Therefore, he started to feel disappointed and furious and said to himself, "It is unfair. Why does the tree grow that tall?" Meanwhile, he felt exhausted since he was walking all day long.

Unluckily for the fox, a baby goat walked past and saw the fox. He thought, "The farmer will be sorrow if he loses his scrumptious grapes. I need to stop the fox." Although he was anxious, he ran to the fox. The fox growled at the goat and yelled, "Get out of my sight. Do not disturb me." The farmer was awakened by the noise. When he saw the fox, he quickly shot at the fox with his hunting gun. It was a close call that the fox only dodged in time. The fox was glad that he was still safe and sound. He quickly ran away. The farmer praised the goat and let the fox leave. When the fox got back to his home, he was not satisfied. He would never go to the orchard since he was afraid of the farmer's shotgun.

"Stand up for others will make things different. "After the incident, the goat realised the importance of standing up against wrongdoings. It is necessary to be ready to take action. He also learnt that we should help others when they are facing challenges.

Once upon a time, there lived a cunning fox in the woods. He was starving since he hardly found food in the forest. He loved eating grapes.

One day, he went out of the forest and saw a grape orchard. He couldn't believe his eyes. He got carried away.

When he got closer, he saw a sign that said 'Do not enter!' However, he really wanted to eat the grapes. They looked luscious and mouth-watering. Without delay, he was attracted to the grapes and went in the grape orchard. He thought to himself, 'I must gather all of the grapes!'

Afterwards, he chose one of the grape trees and decided to get all grapes from it. He first tried to reach it by standing. However, it was too high and he couldn't reach them. After that, he tried to jump but he missed. He kept trying with all his might but he failed repeatedly. He was frustrated. He wanted to get the grapes really badly. Therefore, he didn't give up.

While the fox was trying to reach the grapes, the farmer woke up. He saw the fox trying to steal the grapes. He stood up and got a rifle. He was chasing the fox when the fox saw him. The fox quickly hid behind the tree. The farmer yelled, 'You can't escape now!' Then he acted like he kept missing his shots to scare the fox. He slowly walked towards the fox. The farmer shot once again but he accidentally shot down some grapes. The fox quickly took the grape and hid before he shot again. When the farmer was in front of the tree, he looked behind it to find the fox.

Surprisingly, the fox had already sneaked away with the grapes. Even though the fox got away with the grapes, he still learnt that he should stay calm in difficult situations.

Si Yuan School of the Precious Blood
1st Term Unit 1 Funny reads
Writing Task

P.6 (B) Name: Chan Ting Long (6) Date: 28th September, 2023

Teacher's marking codes:

Code	Sp	P	△△	T	A	Prep	Pron
Meaning	Spelling	Punctuation	Start a new paragraph	Tense	Article	Preposition	Pronoun

Write the story "The Fox and the Grapes" in about 90-120 words.

The Fox and the Grapes

Once upon a time, there lived a cunning fox who loved to eat fruit. He lived next to a grape orchard. There ^{were} had lots of grape trees and it was as pretty as a picture.

One day, the fox walked happily and said, "What a hot sunny day!" he was starving when ^{suddenly,} he walked through the woods. Meanwhile, the fox saw a bunch of grapes. The grapes looked sweet and juicy. It made the fox mouth-watering.

"Let me grab them!" the fox thought. He stood on his hind legs and stretched. Although he jumped high, he missed the hanging grapes. The fox tried to reach them several times but he still failed. He felt thirsty and exhausted. He was as thirsty as a lizard. All of the sudden, he felt dizzy and fainted on the ground.

After a while, a crow passed the grape orchard and he saw the fox fainted on the ground. He said, 'Oh no! The fox is laying down. How can I help him?' He flew to the fox and thought, 'He looks dehydrated. Let me bring some water to him!' The crow looked around the grape orchard and he found a pool. Although he saw the water, he couldn't carry that water to the fox. He suddenly thought he could use a leaf to make a big boat. Soon, he made it and used it to carry ^{some} water.

Nice idea!

When the crow helped the fox to carry the water to him, the fox woke up and said, 'Thank you! I'm fine now.' Suddenly, the crow heard a weird noise. The fox said, 'Sorry, my belly ^(tummy) makes it because I was starving and I can't grab the grapes.' The crow replied, 'Let me help you to take them.'

Then, he used his sharp mouth and cut the grapes down. The Crow and the fox ate lots of ^{grapes}. They felt full and became friends.

The fox learnt that if you have any trouble, you should call your friends for help and support.

You write a lot of details	8
with creative and interesting ideas.	5
You made a great improvement, Oden:	2
Keep it up!	15 (E)

Si Yuan School of the Precious Blood

P6 1st Term Unit 1 Writing

6C Wong Wai Sum (27)

The Fox and the Grapes

A long time ago, there was an arrogant fox living in the forest. It was a sunny day. The fox thought it was comfortable to have a walk on a sunny day, so he went outside. And then he saw some trees in the backyard of his neighbour.

The fox walked pass a grape orchard and saw the juicy grapes. His eyes lighted up and wanted to have one. Suddenly he saw a sign. It said, 'Do not eat the grapes.' 'How selfish my neighbour is! How could he keep all the juicy grapes himself!' The fox murmured. His jaw watered and turned a blind eye to the sign.

First, the fox stood up and stretched but he missed all of them. The fox didn't give up and kept trying. However, he still could not touch the grapes. He yelled loudly, 'Why is it so hard!' He started to jump up and down. Finally, he tried the whole bag of tricks and got the grapes.

After he got the grapes, he thought, 'I finally get the juicy grapes. I must try it now.' The fox put the grape in his mouth cheerfully. Suddenly, he felt dizzy and fainted. At last, the fox woke up at the hospital because he ate a poisonous fruit.

The fox learnt that reading the sign is important and he shouldn't steal things.

Si Yuan School of the Precious Blood

P6 1st Term Unit 1 Writing

6C Chan Ka Pui (3)

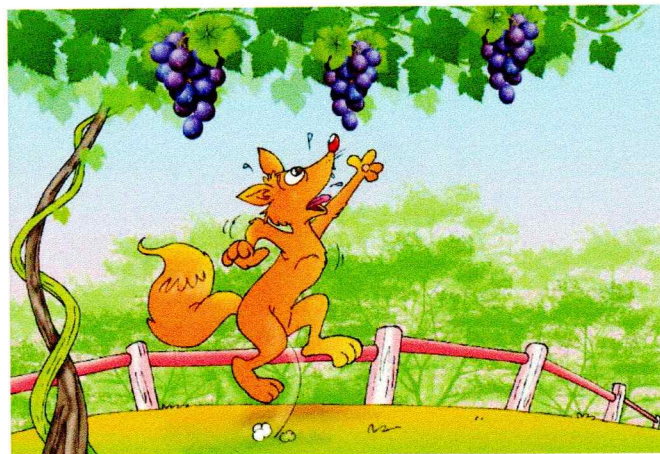

The Fox and the Grapes

Once upon a time, there was an ugly fox living in the cave. It was a sunny day. The fox was hungry.

The fox walked pass a grape orchard and saw the juicy grapes. The fox was as thirsty as a sponge. When the fox saw the juicy grapes, he wanted to climb up the tree and eat them.

The fox stood up and stretched. He tried to reach the grapes but failed. After that, he jumped for several times. However, he still couldn't get the grapes. He missed all of them. The fox said, 'I must eat the grapes!'

Suddenly, the fox had an idea of getting the grapes. The fox tried to dig a big hole under the tree. Finally, the tree fell down. The fox was happy. He learnt that the can be successful if he works hard.

Si Yuan School of the Precious Blood

P6 1st Term Unit 1 Writing

6C Tsui Tin Yui (24)

The Fox and the Grapes

Once upon a time, there was an evil fox living in the forest. It was a sunny day. The fox was an ambitious fox. He was very thirsty and hungry. He walked around the forest and saw a grape orchard. The orchard was as pretty as a picture.

The fox was eager to get those unique grapes. There was nobody in the orchard, so he walked through the orchard. He yelled, 'It was so breathtaking! These grapes look very juicy and sweet.' He wanted to eat these delicious grapes.

He looked around and wanted to steal the grapes.

The fox stood up and tried to grab the grapes. He jumped up to the tree again and again but still missed the grapes. However, he did not give up. Then, he stayed back and jumped up again. Nevertheless, he still failed. He felt blue and disappointed.

Suddenly, the farmer realized the fox was in the orchard. The farmer asked, 'Are you hungry?' The fox replied, 'Yes, I am so hungry. May I have some grapes, please?' The farmer looked at the poor fox and said, 'Yes, of course. You can take it.' The fox felt delighted. Eventually, he could try the juicy grapes.

The moral of this story is that we should use the correct way to get what we want.

1st Term Unit 1 The Fox and the Grapes
By P.6D Audrey

Once upon a time, there lived a cunning fox who was always hungry. He lived near the grape orchard. He felt very hungry every day.

One day, the fox walked through the orchard grapes. He saw many grapes. The grapes looked very juicy, so the fox wanted to eat them. He said to himself, 'The grapes look very delicious and juicy!' He was very excited about finding the grapes.

Suddenly, the fox started to take the grapes. 'I will try my best!' he talked to himself. He jumped but couldn't take the grapes. He tried again but missed again. One hour later, the fox failed many times. He felt exhausted and went bananas.

Finally, the fox gave up. He still felt very hungry. He learnt he should find some other animals to help and share the grapes with them. After he learnt the lesson, he died. He felt blue before he died.

1st Term Unit 1 The Fox and the Grapes
By P.6D Tsang Lam Yee

A long time ago, there was a cunning fox lived near the grape orchard. The fox loved to eat fruits very much, especially grapes.

One day, the fox walked through the orchard grapes. The fox felt as thirsty as a lizard because that was a very hot sunny day. The fox saw some big grapes on the tree. The grapes looked juicy, so he wanted to eat them.

'Yes, I can pick them!' the fox thought. Then, he jumped for a lot of times. He jumped higher and higher, but he missed and failed every time. After jumping a lot of times, he still could not pick any. Therefore, he felt thirstier and hotter than before.

Suddenly, he had an idea. He called his friend, Monkey, to help him pick them because the monkey was really good at climbing trees. Therefore, they picked all the grapes on the tree. 'The grapes were juicy and scrumptious!' they said and enjoyed the grapes so much. However, a farmer saw them and went bananas. He took a broomstick and chased them away.

The fox learnt that he could not be greedy.

