It was Sports Day. It started at eight o'clock.

Joe woke up at seven forty-five.

He was late. He woke up quickly and brushed his teeth. Then he put on his uniform immediately. His mum said, 'You need to have your breakfast now!' But Joe ran in a hurry so he skipped his breakfast.

Joe rushed to the bus stop. Luckily, the bus driver was so kind and waited for him. Joe caught the bus to the sports ground on time. When Joe arrived at the sports ground, he thought, 'I'm starving because I didn't have my breakfast this morning.'

Soon, it was time for Joe to take a race. He took part in the 100m race. The PE teacher, Mr Lee, shouted, 'On your mark, get set, go!' In the race, Joe was very exhausted. He felt dizzy and wanted to give up. He was the slowest competitor. Suddenly, he fell down on the ground and all his classmates were so scared and worried.

When he woke up, he was in the hospital. His mum was sitting next to him. Joe cried, 'Sorry, Mum! I didn't listen to you. I skipped my breakfast this morning.' Mum forgave him and gave a big hug to him.

What an unforgettable day for Joe!

It was Sports Day. Joe woke up late. He shouted, 'It was a quarter to eight!' He went out in a hurry and skipped his breakfast. Mum said, 'You need to have your breakfast first.'

He rushed to the bus stop and caught the bus, so that he could go to the sports ground on time. At the sports ground, Joe thought, 'I am very hungry. I want to eat a sandwich.'

The 100m race was ready to start but Joe was exhausted. Then the PE teacher shouted, 'Ready, set, go!' Joe felt dizzy and wanted to give up.

Joe fell down at the end. The PE teacher asked, 'Are you fine?' and helped him to sit down. Joe thought, 'I must have my breakfast every morning.'

It was Sports Day. Joe woke up late in the morning. It was a quarter to eight. He rushed to put on his sports clothes. He skipped his breakfast and ran away from home. Mum said, 'Joe, take your breakfast before you go to school.'

Joe ran to the bus stop and caught the bus to the sports ground. He was starving and there was nothing to eat in the sports ground. Joe thought, 'I shouldn't skip my breakfast. I am so hungry now!'

Soon, Joe competed in the loom race. He ran slower than other children because he felt dizzy. He wanted to give up.

At last, Joe gave up and felt very regretful. He thought, 'I shouldn't skip my breakfast.' He was very unhappy.
